

PASSIN' THE FAITH ALONG

January 24, 2021

THE BUILDER

*An old man traveling a lone highway
Came at evening, cold and gray
To a river, deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim
The sullen stream held no qualms for him.
But he paused when safe on the other side
And built a bridge to span the tide.
“Old Man,” said a fellow pilgrim near,
“Why do you pause and build a bridge here?
You are old, your head is gray,
You’ll never again pass this way.
You’ve crossed the river, deep and wide,
Why build you a bridge at eventide?”
The builder raised his old gray head,
“My friend, in the way I’ve come,” he said,
“There follows after me some day
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This stream, which was not much for me,
To that fair youth may a pitfall be.
He too must cross in twilight dim,
My friend, I’m building this bridge for him.”*
